Module 1

Drawing of the Human figure

(5 Lessons): Designing on paper, is part of expressing your ideas, fashion sense and style. This is not the finished product though, other methods are essential and work hand in hand with the design you have on paper, such as draping on a mannequin and manipulation of pattern making.

Ultimately you would need to understand the lines and proportions of the human figure and have the freedom of creating your own garments. This is what we call a mixed module where the student has the opportunity to design and experiment by creating a garment.

This is what we call a mixed module where the student has the opportunity to design and experiment by creating a garment. Firstly, you will be sketching all the parts of the body starting from the head to the whole human figure and giving movement.

At the end of this module, we want to get to know your style and the clothes you have in your wardrobe, the participant will combine clothes-take photos of the combinations-sketch a mini collection and create a garment on himself/herself.

Lesson 1: Drawing the head, hair, face.

Lesson 2: Drawing the Arms, Hands, Legs and Feet

Lesson 3: Drawing the Torso

Lesson 4. Movement of the human body.

Lesson 5: Drawing from your wardrobe. (case Study)

Module 2

Clothes Design Development (6 Lessons)

The saying 'Communication is key!' is very valid when one works in a team. Communication is not only verbal; this is very important through work. In order to have the pattern maker and the seamstress to understand your designs detail is of vital importance, as well as being clear and organised, you need to state the obvious.

This module allows the learner to learn how to draw different type of stitches, darts, collars, sleeves hems, zips, buttons, waistbands, cuffs etc. During this course we want your creativity to shine, although we are going to get into the manipulation of patterns rather than starting from basic... This course is about creativity!

Module 3

Finding Inspiration (4 Lessons)

Creativity and research are concurrently important in order to design a cohesive collection! Nowadays its difficult to create something new! You can be innovative in how you interpret the design together with the fabric.

Whether your style is simple, elegant, exotic, unconventional, classic etc. The learner will research the topic thoroughly, choose the material, combine a mood board, sketch ideas, create chosen work samples.

By the end of this module, the learner would be able to produce a Fashion story or collection.

This is a group/collection of designs which are linked to each other but don't need to be the same, they can come from many ideas or one, they derive from the same colour scheme and can share the same material, although the latter is not necessary, accessories can be coordinated must have the same hairstyle and make up.

This module comprises of sketching, pattern manipulation choosing textiles, innovative stitching. We will complete one garment from every module. This would need to be fitted on a model and completed

Lesson 1. The environment around us
Lesson 2. Researching a Fashion Brand.
Lesson 3. Other Cultures
Lesson 4. Working with your favorite Textiles.

Schedule:

Due to Covid-19, we have arranged for the upcoming sessions to be held online to ensure the welfare of both trainer and participants. This has been done in the past and has worked very well. We have ensured that the quality of the course delivery remains uncompromised by adapting the course material for online delivery, setting up a reliable online platform and limiting the number of participants.

There is some flexibility in scheduling subject to group consensus
